Which address goes in which field?

The Florida form asks separate questions. Match the address to the field, not the other way around.

1

ARTICLE II / Principal office

Street address of the LLC's principal office. Hiring a registered agent does not automatically make the agent's location your principal office.

2

ARTICLE II / Mailing address

Where the LLC receives mail, if different from its principal address. A P.O. box is permitted here. Confirm the recipient accepts this mail.

3

ARTICLE III / Registered agent

Name and physical Florida street address of an eligible agent. No P.O. box; the agent must accept the appointment.

THE DECISION

One address may work in more than one field only when it truthfully satisfies each requirement. The fact that a provider authorizes an address does not by itself establish legal suitability.

How FilingOak handles the filing

Real company facts stay real. Public-facing information is reviewed field by field.

1 Match each address field to its purpose

FilingOak considers the field-specific requirement and arranges a legitimate, authorized address where permitted; it does not assume the registered agent address works everywhere.

2 Use designated business contacts where permitted

For applicable filing contact fields, FilingOak uses Enterobiz LLC's official email and business phone number rather than unnecessarily exposing personal contact details.

3 Receive and review state correspondence

Enterobiz's official channels receive applicable communications. FilingOak identifies legitimate state documents and notices and shares them with the customer.

4 Preserve truthful ownership and operations

Privacy never requires a fictional owner, business location or responsible party. Institutions may still require actual personal and operating information.
